Moviegoers can peek at Tyler Perry's upcoming movie 'I Can Do Bad All by Myself' in Mary J. Blige's music video for the film's anthem of the same name.

Mary J. Blige's "I Can Do Bad All by Myself", a soundtrack for a movie of the same name, has got an accompanying music video. Beside being filled with footage from the Tyler Perry-starring film, the video also highlights on Mary's intimate performance at a club.

Lending her vocal to one of the movie's theme songs, Mary J. Blige also lands the part as Tanya, a friend of Taraji P. Henson's April. In this film, the songstress will share screen with the likes of Brian J. White, Gladys Knight and Adam Rodriguez as well.

"I Can Do Bad All by Myself" itself will be released in theaters across America on September 11. Another feature film adaptation from Tyler Perry's plays following "Madea Goes to Jail", this movie will follow Madea when she catches sixteen-year-old Jennifer and her two younger brothers looting her home. She then decides to take matters into her own hands and delivers the young delinquents to the only relative they have, their aunt April.

As for its soundtrack album, there is no release date just yet. Aside from Mary J. Blige, other musicians involved in the making of this compilation
